RALEIGH, N.C. (July 6, 2010)—Cranfill Sumner & Hartzog, LLP (www.cshlaw.com), a corporate and civil defense litigation firm, announces today it has been ranked as the 13th largest law firm in North Carolina by American City Business Journals.

CSH employs 93 attorneys and an additional 125 team members. Home to several notable North Carolina attorneys, CSH has specialty practice groups focused on medical and professional negligence, product liability, construction defects, workers' compensation, police and municipal law, premises liability and security, trucking/transportation law, as well as environmental and toxic torts, and land condemnation. Managing partner Dan M. Hartzog leads the firm. His expertise has earned him recognition as one of The Best Lawyers in America® in 2006, 2007, 2008 and 2009.

"We began in 1992 with 27 attorneys. Our growth is a testament to the belief that, if you take care of your clients, everything else will fall into place," says Hartzog. "To this end, the firm has been able to efficiently meet the needs of some of the nation's largest companies in an environment that fosters creativity and innovation."
